Preface:

Adventures in Writing (Preparatory) is a fun and easy-to-teach three level series written especially for preschoolers. The series was written, edited, and evaluated by a team of experienced Early Childhood Education professionals. It recognizes the specific circumstances and problems of teaching writing in the preschool.

The book contains carefully planned, prepared, sequenced, and tried-and-tested exercises that make preschoolers look forward to working on them. In order to make writing easy, step-by-step strokes have been included to help the preschoolers learn, develop, and master the correct formation of lines, curves, letters, numbers, and words.

The book includes writing readiness skills, writing capital and small letters of the alphabet, writing numbers, writing number words, color words, and shape words, writing days of the week, and writing months of the year. In addition, writing one's name is also included, among others.

It is hoped that after going through the exercises in this book, the preschoolers should be able to write legibly, accurately, and neatly. Although writing requires time and effort, always remember that "correct practice makes perfect."
