Foreword:

This book is especially made for you, for more enjoyable, enriched and meaningful learning.

Science concepts are treated carefully for you to understand better the world that you live in. We hope that through this book, you will learn to live at your best of God's creation.

In this book, you will not only read and listen. Ample activities are waiting for you to explore, to discover more of the world where you live, and to develop your basic skills in science such as naming, describing, grouping, identifying, comparing and manipulating.
